Good Morning Lovely Children

Daily News from Ms Clacy

You will never guess what happened last night? Betty Boo Boo Cat Clacy got stuck in the cat flap. She is a big white ball of fluff and I thought that she had just got fluffier during lockdown. However, I now realise she has just put on weight.(I am sure she is not the only one who has been over snacking at home!)

So what happened? I heard a meow coming from the kitchen and when I went in I saw her stuck in the doorway. Charlie Farley was behind her trying to push her in but her fat bottom just wouldn't budge. I am sure he was laughing at her. He is so mean to his sister. Eventually, with a lot of pulling and pushing we got her in. So Betty Boo is now on a very strict diet! No more Dreamies treats or tins of tuna for her. It is diet food from now on words.

I know that you are all allowed out a little bit more because Prime Minister Boris has said you can. However, you still need to be very careful when you go out. Make sure that you wash your hands for 20 seconds (or sing 'Happy Birthday' and when you have finished you can stop washing). Also try and keep your distance from people when you are out. If you stretch your arms out, this shows you how far away you need to be. If you can't touch anybody that is perfect!

I have just looked in my diary and I have found out it would have been Sports Day today for Key Stage 1. So maybe you could challenge your parents to an egg and spoon race in the garden or park. I need to let you know something. Apparently, last year Mr Wilkinson gave his pupils Blue Tac to stick the eggs on the spoons. What a cheater! Typical Aston Villa supporter! Ms Parker and Ms Wanklin told me this.

I'm off now little people and big year 6 children.

Have a good day.
Love Ms C
