Dear Children

Daily Update

I hope the first day of home schooling went well. The staff and I spent the day going through what we have to do when you eventually come back to school. I have been reading things every day about how to keep you safe. I have then put it into a plan and yesterday I met virtually with teachers to explain the plan. Mrs Spanos, Mrs Brittain and Miss Humpage have been helping me with the plan. They have even corrected my spellings and grammar for me which I was really pleased with. The Local Authority have not checked my plan yet so we cannot open further until they have done this.

I do need to tell you about what Charlie Farley and Betty Boo Boo got up to yesterday. I am having a new bathroom fitted as I didn't like my old one and it looked a bit old fashioned. Adam, the lovely plumber, is fitting it for me. When I got home I asked him if he had seen the cats. As I thought, Betty had hidden under the bed all day because she is a woosy pussy. Charlie, on the other hand, had been in and out of Adam's tool box; had a sniff around in the skip; nearly got his head stuck in a water pipe and ended up sat in the sink watching poor Adam. If he is not carefully today he may be cemented to the wall!

I have another busy day today. Lots of online meetings.

Have a good day.
Love Ms C
