Dear Children

Daily Update

What a beautiful sunny day it is today. The bunnies are sunbathing as I speak. I think that they worked hard helping the Easter Bunny deliver Easter Eggs this weekend.

Charlie Farley Cat Clacy was poorly again over Easter and he had to spend 4 days in the Animal Hospital. The vets think that he has become stressed because he has been kept indoors because of his poorly eye. One vet did say that he was stressed because he was spending too much time with me! What a cheek! I was very worried about him but he is a lot better now. Although, I did catch him sitting in the bath this morning so I think he must have gone a little bit mad. He didn't go as far as to put bubble bath in the water though!

It is very exciting as my new office is nearly finished. I did ask the builders today why it has taken them 10 months to build my new office when builders in London have taken only 2 weeks to build the Nightingale hospital! Maybe I shouldn't have been so cheeky but luckily they did laugh. I was at a good distance from them so I had a head start on them if I had to run away from them.

Keep sending me photographs of all of the things you are getting up to and doing at home.

Love
Ms Clacy
